

To: ART Majors
From: Scholarship Committee
Date: Anderson Ranch Partnership program

The Department of Art and Art History at The University of Alabama invites applications for both ceramics and sculpture students to participate in the Anderson Ranch Partnership Program. This program assists students with the cost of attending one of Anderson Ranch's summer workshops. Support is offered from the Department, which is matched by Anderson Ranch. The awardee is responsible for covering a portion of the costs including travel. Applications will be accepted from art majors with a concentration in ceramics or sculpture. Anderson Ranch is an internationally recognized art center in Snowmass Village, Colorado that offers workshops, an artist residency program, and exhibitions. For more information, visit www.andersonranch.org.
